In recognition of the success, progress and accomplishments of the art students enrolled in the advanced art courses, this exhibit features student work from the Painting II course taught by Jesse Connor, adjunct art faculty, and Drawing III course taught by Professor Thomas Matsuda.

The art students, at this level, begin to use the course assignment as a catalyst to develop their own voice and vision in their work as they skillfully manipulate their medium and respond to their subject to create outstanding work for their portfolio.

For most of these students, this will be their last year in the art program at Mount Wachusett Community College. Many will be graduating in spring 2017. This exhibit is an opportunity for the art students to formally acknowledge and celebrate their success with a group exhibition and reception on December 16, 2016.
